

Ichabod's Sketchbook Submission Guidelines

Ichabod's Sketchbook invites you to submit to our next issue. This literary journal comes out of Irvington, an area of Indianapolis rich in the arts, and is open for submissions from established and emerging poets/writers who live in Indiana.

You may submit up to 3 poems (up to 30 lines each) or 2 short stories (up to 1000 words each) for a reading fee of $15.

The following information should be included with your submission:

Name

Address

Phone No.

Email address

Specification of works as prose or poems

How many

List of the titles of your work

Please cut and paste your work into emails (this will save us from viruses) and include the following information in the subject line:

Your name

The word "Submission"

The number of prose or poems - i.e. Smith, Submission: 2 poems

Then send to: ichabodssketchbook@gmail.com

If you are submitting both genres, those should be in separate emails. All work will be judged blindly. If any work submitted is that of a student, former or present, or a friend or colleague of one of the co-editors, they will remove themselves from judging those particular pieces.

All work will be considered as long as it is the best quality and contains nothing that could be considered pornographic or erotic in nature.

All payments should be sent through PayPal to the same email address: ichabodssketchbook@gmail.com .

Deadline will be December 18, 2010.

Sincerely,

The Editors of Ichabod's Sketchbook
